“ As his niece I always felt from Berley was all love. When In his presence I I always felt awash in his love, because I was Elmer's daughter. We could do nothing to prevent him from loving us, because we were his siblings children. No matter how old I was...30, 40, 50, 60, I could always guarantee that he would remind me that his saved me when I messed my diaper while I was playing in a coal pile (I don't know how I got there) and he held me on my bottom till we got home. He would demonstrate how he did it with those hands that reminded me so much on my dad's (Honey). He would even grab my face with his hands, just like a child and say, "Your old Unc loves you." Just love, that was Berley. Not many people love you like that.
