He leaves behind his loving wife, Deborah Robinson Sweet; his mother, Annette Smith Sweet; two children, Jensen Lea Brogan & husband Blake, Cole Bradley Sweet & fiancé Hannah Mae Sizemore, all of London, KY; his sister, Cheryl Stacy & husband Darrell of London, KY; his niece and nephew, Rachel Smith & husband Tyler, Michael Robinson, all of London, KY; plus a host of grand animals that he baby sat and took care of, as well as many friends and other family members to cherish his memory.

He was preceded in death by his father, Edward Sweet.

Eddie lived a life marked by faith, dedication, kindness, and an unwavering love for his family and community. A highly respected member of the community, Eddie was known for his intelligence, strong work ethic, and genuine care for others. Though he never sought the spotlight and preferred not to speak in front of crowds, he never met a stranger and loved connecting with people wherever he went.

Eddie was a self-employed computer technician who built a successful career helping others with their technology needs. His passion for electronics began early in life and led him to attend RETS (Radio Electronics Training School), where he developed the knowledge and skills that would serve him throughout his career. Whether troubleshooting a complicated computer issue or lending a helping hand to a friend, Eddie was always willing to share his expertise.

His faith was the foundation of his life. Eddie was a devoted member of New Salem Baptist Church, where he faithfully served behind the scenes through the church's media ministry. He managed social media, live streaming, and the sound board, ensuring that others could experience worship and stay connected to the church. He shared a special friendship with the late Pastor Greg Deaton, whom he loved and respected dearly. Eddie was deeply committed to his church family and found great joy in serving the Lord.

A devoted husband and amazing father, Eddie's greatest pride was his family. He was actively involved in his children's lives, attending every sporting event, music performance, and school activity possible. He coached Little League tee-ball and basketball and treasured every opportunity to encourage and support young people. His love for his family was evident in everything he did.

Outside of work and church, Eddie enjoyed many hobbies and interests. He loved fishing, camping, and spending time near the ocean. He was an avid fan of NASCAR, professional wrestling, and sports of all kinds. He faithfully cheered for the Cincinnati Reds and was a dedicated University of Kentucky fan. Music was another passion, and his playlists often included Creed, Nickelback, 3 Doors Down, Skillet, Crowder, and other Christian rock favorites.

Eddie also shared a special bond with his beloved fur baby, Lyla, who brought him endless companionship and joy.

Those who knew Eddie will remember a man who worked hard, loved deeply, served faithfully, and gave generously of his time and talents. His quiet humility, sharp mind, and caring heart left a lasting impression on everyone he met. While his presence will be greatly missed, his legacy of faith, family, service, and love will continue to inspire all who were blessed to know him.

His memory will forever be treasured by his family, friends, church family, and the countless lives he touched throughout the years.
