“ Howie was a great guy!! The funniest memory I have of Howie is when we both worked in 9005/9006. One day Howie got tired of a certain oriental engineer always turning Howie's machine on while Howie was working on it. This day, when the machine was shut down, Howie caught the engineer leaning over the machine with his tie lying on the machine. Howie started the machine and of course the tie got caught resulting in the engineer running along following his tie yelling "shut it off, shut it off". Howie complied, turned it off, and yelled at the engineer "NOW will you stop turning my machine on while I'm working on it"?. To my knowledge it never happened again!! Rest in peace, Howie and thanks for the memories!! Gwen Van der Linde.
