“ A personal, and warm memory of all the good in Uncle Goat's always inspiring welcoming presence and a reflection of a memory that truly says a thousand words about the simple yet deep seeded mind of a man who (looked after and over) his home and lifetime home. Goat was the glue that held the homestead together It is with hope, and prayer along with definite concern, and continued review that will prevail in the watchful eyes of those that loved goat for goat without malice without greed but with a kind greeting each and every visit be it by phone or in person. Simple yes he was but smart as a whip. I am reminded of the adage "silence is golden" Uncle Goat was solid gold inside and out. God Bless the Minton and Jackson family.. truly one family..I pray that positive energy is evoked and I guarantee to offer a steady hand in the dutiful acts of preserving not tainting Uncle Goats countless qualities. Certainly a man without which there is another. Goat was happy when silence was around him, and those he loved we're well within their lives-generous yet generous not to a fault yet in many occasions to be the line that stood to correct the fault in order to maintain a firm foundation. Everyone could take a lesson in being the greatest of their personal time, all the time, in whatever action they participate in. Blessed in all my numerous memories of my uncle-I feel as a Christian that my uncle behaved as a man created in god's image- his feet and physical self needed no church to endorse what he expressed to me as a belief in a God, and his thought that he too would see his departed loved ones. Faith is internal, and I surmise as a man of Faith, baptised, born again as a child of Christ- As is in the king James version of the old testament that of the lambs book of life- without any pursuit of blasphemy if uncle goats name isn't contained within the entry to the pearly gates- I would want to consult with the One true God, and support the need for an audit of the books- not lightly or in jest do I tender these words. God is almighty and works in mysterious ways. I again fervently pray that our Almighty god takes special attention with the legacy my uncle was and will personally always be considered the patriarch not in age but in oversight of the land he loved to care for the cemeteries he valued, manicured, and all in the pursuit of being the curator of what was a beautiful land, and what again will always be. As I continue to recall and grieve this loss I have come to the resolve that it's not a loss it's as said ashes to ashes dust to dust..well the soil will be richer now, and my uncle sowed love-and true hand worked the fields- Yes he held a job, and was great at it, but his job was at his home caring for each and every one- until unfortunately as is with life his mind solid, clear, and pragmatic had to say no, No is not a bad word, more i believe need to gain the notice of "knowing when to hold them, when to fix them, and when to actively recall W.W.G.D. what would goat do..he would be his level headed self and hold his own. Goat inspired me and continues to I trust always..Do for yourself, be honest, do not trespass, and forgive,yet I for one will never forget. Goat told the blunt truth, and moved on to do work. Goat should inspire this spark in everyone's heart. A laugh like no other, yet never at anyone or anything hurtful. Joy is possible.
