“ Stanley was a really nice fellow. He loved to talk and make his pictures and art. He was very talented, and took pride especially the things he made his daughter. She was always on his mind and heart. He would tell me how much he loved her and how blessed he was to be her father. He also loved to give Malcom a hard way to go and tell funny things on him. He was a special person. He made you feel welcome and appreciated in his home...
