“ I first met Suzanne when my Father-in-Law was at the Jackson Manor. She would try to get me to buy her Mt Dew. I didn't always understand what she was saying but I knew she wanted POP. She would lay her head on my shoulder and whine and say, "POP". It became a game with us. I would come in and she would try to get me to buy pop and if I pretended like I didn't understand, well, she would get me by the hand and lead me to the back to where she knew POP was. Sometimes I would leave crying because she had already had her limit for the day and still she wanted more. I know she touched a lot of people and she will be missed.
